President’s Welcome Message

Welcome to New Orleans Downtown Marriott at the Convention Center, site of the 81st Annual Meeting of the Southern Sociological Society

Welcome to New Orleans! The theme for this year’s meeting is Racial Theory, Analysis, and Politics in TrumpAmerica. When I met in October 2016 with a few SSS colleagues to discuss this meeting, I had selected a theme in line with my work on color-blind racism. Then, on November 2016, Donald J. Trump became our 45th President. His election seems to have changed everything! His crudeness, authoritarianism, lack of knowledge, and childishness mixed with his immense entertainment value (the man is funny) have disoriented all of us as we do not seem to know what is up or down. Hence, I changed my theme as I thought sociologists desperately needed to investigate, analyze, theorize, and even rant about this major development in American history.

In plenaries, thematic sessions, Town Halls, and many regular sessions, we will examine all kind of Trump-related subjects. On Wednesday, we will have a “mano a mano” plenary on “Trump(sm), Border Walls, Immigrations, and Bad Mexicans” with Rogelio Saenz (UTSA) and David Montejano (Berkeley). On Thursday, we will have a solo plenary with Michael Omi (Berkeley) on “What We Need to Think About in Rethinking Racial Theory” and another “mano a mano” with Jessie Daniels (Hunter College) and Jessica Ayo Alabi (Orange Coast College) on “Fighting Back: Resistance to Attacks on Academics in the Trump Era.” Friday, we will have ASA’s President Elect, Mary Romero (Arizona State University), talking about “Violence, Nationalism, and Citizenship in TrumpAmerica.” And on Saturday, we will have a session on “Global Trump(ism): Brexit, Modi, and the Race to the Bottom” with Bandana Purkayastha (University of Connecticut) and Steve Garner (Birmingham City University).

Besides the plenaries, we will have fifteen thematic sessions on topics ranging such as “After Charlottesville: Contexts Magazine on White Nationalism, Confederate Statues, and Trump,” “Studying the Environment in Trump’s America: A Collaborative HBCU Perspective,” “Transgressive Sociology in the Age of Trump,” “Wrestling Professionally with Donald Trump,” “The Trump Administration and Global Politics,” and “Southern Sociology in the Era of Trump?” among others. We will also have an important Town Hall on “Sociology and Sociologists in TrumpAmerica: How Sociology is Dealing with the Challenges of this Special Moment” with Johnny Williams (Trinity College), Nancy Kidd (American Sociological Association), and Mary Romero (Arizona State University). And, as usual, we will also have poster sessions, mini-conferences, incubator sessions, Author Meet Critics sessions, and much, much more including a first for us: a yoga session — “Yoga for a Cause: Cultivating Embodied Compassion” — led by Marc Settembrino (Southeastern Louisiana University).

Organizing an event of this magnitude could not happen without the assistance of many people. First, I want to thank all the colleagues in the Program Committee. Although all of them deserve praise for their hard work, I must single out David G. Embrick (University of Connecticut), who chaired the Program Committee and worked on it from 2016 until 2018. David, thanks for all the hours you put in making sure this program became a reality. Second, I thank all the members of the SSS Council for their work and support throughout this year. Our superb Executive Officer, David Brunsma, and his organizational right hand, Slade Lellock (both at Virginia Tech), deserve special recognition for their enthusiasm and commitment to all SSS-related matters, including this meeting. Third, I thank D’Lane Compton (University of New Orleans) who helped organize and coordinate local arrangements including the always welcomed extracurricular activities and tours. Finally, I thank all the members who are participating in this meeting. Without your participation as presenters, organizers, presiders, and attendees, this meeting could not occur. Thanks to everyone and enjoy the meeting!

Anti-Harassment at SSS 2018

Anti-Harassment Policy

SSS reminds everyone: Our Annual Meeting is convened for the purposes of professional development and scholarly educational interchange in the spirit of free inquiry and free expression. Harassment of colleagues, students, hotel staff or other conference participants undermines the principle of equity at the heart of these professional fora and is inconsistent with the principles of free inquiry and free expression. Consequently, harassment is considered by SSS to be a serious form of professional misconduct.

The following Anti-Harassment Policy outlines expectations for all those who attend or participate in SSS meetings. It reminds SSS meeting participants that all professional academic ethics and norms apply as standards of behavior and interaction at these meetings.

Purpose

SSS is committed to providing a safe and welcoming conference environment for all participants, free from harassment based on age, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, language, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, disability, health conditions, socioeconomic status, marital status, domestic status, or parental status (hereafter, simply harassment).

"Participant" in this policy refers to anyone present at SSS meetings, including staff, contractors, vendors, exhibitors, venue staff, SSS members, and all other attendees.

Expected Behavior

All participants at SSS meetings are expected to abide by this Anti-Harassment Policy in all meeting venues including ancillary events as well as official and unofficial social gatherings.

- Follow the norms of professional respect that are necessary to promote the conditions for free academic interchange.
- If you witness potential harm to a conference participant, be proactive in helping to mitigate or avoid that harm.
- Alert conference security personnel or law enforcement if you see a situation in which someone might be in imminent physical danger.

Unacceptable Behavior

Harassment of any participant is unethical behavior under the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics, which offer guiding principles for how sociologists should conduct themselves in all professional activities both in person and online. Harassment consists of a single intense and severe act or of multiple persistent or pervasive acts which are demeaning, abusive, offensive, or create a hostile professional or workplace environment. Harassment may include sexual solicitation, physical advance, or verbal or non-verbal conduct that is sexual in nature; it may also include threatening, intimidating, or hostile acts; circulation of written or graphic material that denigrates or shows hostility toward an individual or group; epithets, slurs, or negative stereotyping based on group identity.

Attendees are encouraged to immediately report instances of harassment during the Annual Meeting to a member of the SSS Executive Committee (see list here http://bit.ly/2H475tj) or the SSS Executive Officer, David L. Brunsma, at brunsmad@vt.edu, (573) 355-0599. To read the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics in its entirety, visit www.asanet.org and follow the link to "Ethics."

Populism is a peer-reviewed, international journal devoted to promoting transdisciplinary examination of populism in both historical and contemporary contexts. The journal’s fundamental premise is that, while there is currently no coherent frame of analysis, most experts do agree that populism is a complex and variegated phenomenon that should be examined from different theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches. Moreover, there is general agreement about its growing importance in the social sciences and about the rather obvious etymological fact that it is predicated upon the positing of an antagonistic relationship between two collective entities: “the people” and “the elites.”

However, here is where scholarly consensus ends and disagreement comes to the fore. Some researchers prefer to approach populism as an ideology; others consider it as a mode of expression, a discursive style, a species of rhetoric, a political style, a type of political logic, or an exclusionary form of identity politics. Still others eschew such ideational and discursive approaches in favor of more policy-centered and organizational perspectives on populism as a political strategy, a strategy of political organization, or a political project of mobilization that also includes social movements. Put in an even more general framework, populism has also been referred to as a dimension of political culture. Although these different approaches are not necessarily mutually exclusive, they can be usefully associated with three distinct research paradigms identified by Gidron and Bonkowski (2013): (1) populism as political ideology; (2) populism as political style; and (3) populism as political strategy.

Populist currents have characterized many of the most pivotal events and developments in human history—often in times when established institutions lose their normative influence over individual and collective behavior. Aiming to serve as the premier forum for transdisciplinary research, the journal seeks to foster reflection on populism as one powerful way in which societies respond to rapid change in the social order. With that in mind, we also encourage contributions that discuss the impact of globalization on the transformation of the conventional ideological landscape in general and on populism in particular.

The Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Health Administration and Policy includes 16 graduate faculty members, who work very closely with graduate students to achieve their individual academic goals. Our program emphasizes the "practical side" of sociology and the acquisition of analytical skills for career development.

- Program foci include: health, illness, and medicine; aging and the life course; diversity, gender, and culture; and applied research methods.
- M.A. in Applied Sociology with combined Ph.D. programs in Gerontology, Language, Literacy, and Culture; and Public Policy.
- Graduate Assistantships and flexible hourly positions are available.

Learn more at sociology.umbc.edu or contact Graduate Program Coordinator, Faith Dinh (fdinh1@umbc.edu) or Graduate Program Director, Dr. Marina Adler (adler@umbc.edu).
Completing an M.A. degree in Sociology builds your résumé and prepares you for a wide variety of careers. These include Business, Social Services, Teaching, Healthcare Professions, Law and Criminal Justice, and many more!

Students develop skills in understanding a global perspective, conducting research and analyzing data, skillfully communicating, thinking critically, and engaging with diverse communities.

We offer financial support for M.A. students and many students go on to Ph.D. programs across the country.

Introducing Intersectionality
MARY ROMERO
“This lucid, jargon-free, and impressively comprehensive book by a leading scholar in the field is ideal for undergraduate courses on a wide range of topics, but it is so much more than that. It is vital reading, showing how inequality can be found in our own backyard and not just ‘out there.’”
Leslie McCall, Graduate Center, City University of New York
978-0-7456-6067-8, 224 pages, December 2017, paperback, $44.95  $13.96

Are Black Men Doomed?
ALFRED A. YOUNG, JR.
“In this thoughtful and important book, Alfred Young calls upon us to not only rethink our collective sentiment about Black males, but to take a more thorough account of how they view themselves as well. A must-read.”
William Julius Wilson, Harvard University
978-1-5095-5220-6, 144 pages, January 2018, paperback, $22.95  $10.36

Race and Work
KARYN LOSCOCCO
“An engaging and thought-provoking analysis of the connections between race, ethnicity, and work opportunities and experiences. Race and Work is a must-read for anyone interested in how and why race inequality persists.”
Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, Duke University
978-0-7456-9641-6, November 2017, 224 pages, paperback, $22.95  $18.36

Immigration Law and Society
JOHN S. W. PARK
“John S.W. Park offers both detail and perspective in this magisterial history of the impacts of society of immigration law and its enforcement in the United States. The scope of the book is breathtaking, from the immigration of the colonists to the travel bans issued in 2017 by President Trump.”
Kevin Johnson, University of California, Davis

Race and Sexuality
SALVADOR VIDAL-ORTIZ, BRANDON ANDREW ROBINSON, CRISTINA KHAN
“Race and Sexuality shows how the connections between these forms of difference do not emerge in esoteric domains but in the most familiar ones, in the stereotypes that inform how one group thinks of another, in political agendas that foster inequalities, in media representations of domestic minorities and transnational migrants, and in the justifications of contemporary wars.”
Roderick Ferguson, University of Illinois at Chicago
978-1-5095-1384-0, 208 pages, April 2018, paperback, $22.95  $18.36

Latinos in the United States: Diversity and Change
ROGELIO SÁENZ AND MARIA CRISTINA MORALES
“Finally we have a comprehensive, theoretically oriented, data-driven book on Latinos. We now have a one-stop place to get all the information we need on the Latino population in the United States. I salute Sáenz and Morales for putting together this marvellous and extremely useful book.”
Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, Duke University

Winthrop University’s Department of Sociology, Criminology, and Anthropology

Our multidisciplinary department is united in its focus on social inequalities and social change in contemporary and prehistoric societies and within institutions such as the criminal justice system. We emphasize high-impact practices that connect students to the world outside the classroom (i.e. service-learning, study abroad, internships, career planning/networking with alumni, research with faculty). We place a high value on undergraduate research as demonstrated by our curriculum with include five social research courses. The undergraduate experience culminates in each student completing a full research project which provides an excellent foundation for data analysis careers and graduate school.
Join us in our longstanding tradition of a vibrant community of scholars and thriving graduate student body. We offer:

- MS and PhD in Sociology
- Concentrations in Rural Sociology, Criminology, Demography and Social Inequality
- Advanced quantitative and qualitative methodologies
- Research and fellowship opportunities with the Social Science Research Center (SSRC)

CALL FOR NEW AUTHORS
THE COGNELLA TEXTBOOK SERIES ON RACE & ETHNICITY

The scholarship and teaching of race and ethnicity is central to understanding our experience in contemporary societies. Often a charged, sometimes contentious, arena filled with complex problems, difficult conversations, and few easy solutions, the importance of engaging with race and ethnicity studies remains crucial to current social realities around the globe.

Cognella Academic Publishing seeks to produce a series of academic textbooks and anthologies of originally commissioned chapters on race and ethnicity. Cognella Sociology Acquisitions Editor Seidy Cruz has partnered with David L. Brunsma, Ph.D., serving in the capacity of advisory editor, to develop this series. Together, they’ve created a list of interrelated topics for prospective textbook development including but not limited to:

- Race & Ethnicity in the U.S.
- Global & Comparative Race & Ethnicity
- Immigration
- Racial Inequality
- Racism, Discrimination, & Prejudice
- Environmental Racism
- Race & Nationalism
- Race & Mass Media

ABOUT THE EDITORS

David Brunsma, Ph.D. is Professor of Sociology at Virginia Tech, where he teaches and conducts research on race, racism, racialization, racial identity, human rights, and other areas. His numerous publications include The Leading Rogue State: The United States and Human Rights and Beyond Black Binational Identity in America. He is founding Co-Editor of Sociology of Race and Ethnicity and has served as editor for Societies Without Borders: Human Rights & the Social Sciences and the Race & Ethnicity section of Sociology Compass. Among other positions, he is currently Executive Officer of the Southern Sociological Society.

Seidy Cruz is a Specialist Acquisitions Editor for Cognella with focus in Latin American studies, Chicano studies, ethnic studies, and sociology. She earned a B.S. in political science and a minor in French literature from the University of California, San Diego. Her passion for inclusive communities and sound public policy lead her to work at San Diego Dialogue, a think tank focused on issues affecting the border region, and the Institute of the Americas prior to Seidy joining Cognella in 2002.

I will build a Great, Great WALL on the Southern border.

I’m like really smart and a very stable Genius.

Sorry losers and haters. But my IQ is one of the highest and you all know it.
