

Position Announcement:

Sociology (Open Rank)

Georgia Institute of Technology. The School of History, Technology, and Society (HTS) invites applications for a tenure-track, open rank Sociology position beginning Fall 2009. We welcome specialization in the sociology of medicine, science, and/or technology. Expertise in health disparities and/or underrepresented groups in science and technology is desirable but not required. The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong research record and excellence in teaching, and be expected to contribute to our undergraduate program and the PhD program in History and Sociology of Technology and Science.

HTS is an interdisciplinary unit composed of sociologists and historians. More can be learned about our program at <http://www.hts.gatech.edu>. Georgia Institute of Technology is a research university located in the heart of Atlanta.

To ensure consideration, applications packets must be received by September 30, 2008. Applicants should send a letter of application, statement of teaching philosophy, copies of scholarly papers, a current vita, and three letters of references to: Dr. Willie Pearson, Jr., Search Chair, School of History, Technology, and Society, 685 Cherry Street, Room 108, D. M. Smith Building, Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, Georgia 303032. Additional application materials may be requested. Georgia Institute of Technology is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

(posted to SSS website and listerv on June 23, 2008)