

Sociology Dept: job description [position # 13429]:

University of North Carolina Greensboro. The Department of Sociology invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. A major teaching responsibility will be statistics at both the undergraduate and graduate (M.A.) levels. We seek a sociologist with both the desire and the ability to teach social statistics several times a year and whose substantive interests reflect a strong commitment to and familiarity with quantitative research. Other areas of specialization are open. Candidates must hold or anticipate a Ph.D. in Sociology by August 1, 2010. UNC Greensboro is a growing research university with approximately 18,500 undergraduate and graduate students and has recently been awarded a Carnegie classification of a university with “high research activity.” It is located in a metropolitan area of 1.2 million in the Piedmont region of North Carolina between the Atlantic Ocean and the Appalachian mountains. The Department of Sociology offers the B.A. and M.A. degrees and currently has thirteen full-time tenure-track faculty. UNC Greensboro is especially proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position, including women and members of minority groups. We are an EEO/AA employer with a strong commitment to increasing faculty diversity. To apply, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and at least three letters of recommendation to: Steven R. Cureton, Search Committee Chair, Department of Sociology, University of North Carolina Greensboro, P. O. Box 26170, Greensboro, NC 27402-6170. Initial review of applications will begin January 15, 2010 and continue until the position is filled.