About the Art and the Artist

“I Will Find a Way or Make One”
Cover Art for the 2023 Southern Sociological Society Annual Meeting
Earl Wright II, President

The cover art for the 2023 annual meeting of the Southern Sociological Society pays homage to Black Southern-based scholars who made seminal, yet largely overlooked, contributions to the discipline. The left side park area represents segregation and the challenges Black and White scholars had when attempting to work collaboratively. The park’s right side area represents the progress we’ve made and how we are now able to work and live as one. The sign reads “I Will Find a Way or Make One” and was the motto for Atlanta University; now called Clark Atlanta University. It was the spirit of this motto that guided W. E. B. Du Bois, pictured in the middle of the road, as he overcame segregation and other challenges to make significant contributions to the social sciences as leader of the first American school of sociology - the Atlanta Sociological Laboratory. Standing behind Du Bois is Lucy Craft Laney, a member of Du Bois’ school. To the right of Du Bois and Laney is Augustus Granville Dill, also a member of the Atlanta Sociological Laboratory, one of the first public sociologists in the nation, and, quite likely, the first openly Queer sociologist in the nation. Last, the “Tuskegee” truck driving toward the group represents a “movable school” established by Booker T. Washington that travelled across the country to show farmers and Black businesspersons what was accomplished by the nation’s first applied rural sociology program and how it could be used to improve their professions. Summarily, this cover art provides an opportunity for viewers to gain a more holistic understanding of the discipline’s major contributors while grounding the American South as central to sociology’s origin, early development, and future configurations.

Final Program

A Note About COVID

We are excited to plan an in-person 2023 conference. Conference attendees will be required to be fully vaccinated and to upload their vaccination card in order to attend the conference. "Fully vaccinated" means all doses in the primary series and all boosters recommended for you given your age and health status. Masks will also be required in the hotel annual meeting spaces - presenters are also encouraged to wear masks during their presentations. SSS will encourage all members to test before coming to the annual meeting, to monitor their symptoms during SSS 2023, and to test at the conference if there is reason to do so. We understand that the COVID situation is fluid, particularly with the development of highly contagious variants. As such, SSS Executive Committee will be monitoring the situation and will make alterations if necessary. In addition, the Sheraton Myrtle Beach is currently enforcing increased cleaning schedules and encouraging masks for those who are not vaccinated. SSS will be closely monitoring the situation as it develops.

HENRY MCMASTER
GOVERNOR

Dear Friends,

It is my pleasure to welcome you to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, for the 2023 Annual Meeting of the Southern Sociological Society. I am certain you will find the Grand Strand a phenomenal place to not only engage in your scholarly pursuits, but to relax and recharge as well.

Your President, Dr. Earl Wright II, and Conference Co-Chairs, Drs. Anita Bledsoe-Gardner and DeMond S. Miller, have worked tirelessly to bring together an enriching and fulfilling program. Meeting under the theme "I Will Find A Way or Make One:" Embracing and Advancing the American South's Tradition of Sociological Innovation and Scholar-Activism serves as a reminder of the activism that has taken place here within our beloved state. From Robert Smalls who, while enslaved, stole the Confederate steamer The Planter and delivered it to the Union Army, providing freedom to his family and others before going on to serve in the South Carolina legislature and, later, the U.S. House of Representatives and Harriett Tubman who led a Union raid on the Cumberhee River, freeing 700 enslaved people to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. who wrote parts of his famous "I Have a Dream" speech while at the Penn Center and Federal Judge Julius Waties Waring, writer of the dissenting opinion in Briggs v. Elliot, which would later go on to be part of the Brown v. Board of Education case desegregating public schools nationwide, many "found a way or made one," including a group of the famed Tuskegee Airmen who trained at Walterboro Army Air Field.

Many of our fine universities, including South Carolina State University, the University of South Carolina, and Clemson University, have faculty and alumni who are part of the SSS and are presenting this week.

Peggy and I wish you all the best for a rewarding annual meeting. We hope you take some time to experience the natural beauty, rich history and culture, delicious cuisine, and warm hospitality that abound along the Grand Strand and throughout South Carolina.

Yours very truly,

Henry McMaster

Welcome from the President

Greetings SSSers and welcome to beautiful Myrtle Beach, South Carolina!

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 86th meeting of the Southern Sociological Society. This meeting is taking place in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, a city that offers a wealth of family-friendly activities, intellectual and cultural excursions, and ... oh yeah ... fun on the beach!

The Executive Office and Program Committee have worked extremely hard to make this year's conference experience one of the best you've ever had, and I'd be remiss if I did not recognize them for their hard work. The people who deserve the lions share of praise for putting this meeting together includes Program Co-Chairs Anita Bledsoe-Gardner and DeMond Miller, Program Committee member Lori Martin, Executive Officer David Brunnsma, Assistant Executive Officer Lyla Byers, Recording Secretary Rhiannon Leebrick, Local Arrangements Co-Chairs Stephanie Southworth and Matthew Wilkinson, and the many people who volunteered their labor for this event. I am deeply indebted to this team for agreeing to take on this volunteer task and executing it perfectly!

The conference theme, "I Will Find a Way or Make One: Embracing and Advancing the American South's Tradition of Sociological Innovation and Scholar-Activism," pays homage to Black women and men whose contributions to the discipline were massive yet ignored. However, beyond simply recognizing the exploits of Black sociologists, the theme underscores the fact that the contributions of sociologists from and of the American South, be they Black, White, Hispanic, AAPI, etc, have often been overlooked and consistently underrecognized. This meeting addresses that historical oversight as this is a celebration of research conducted by and for the American South. This message is most prominently reflected in the four presidential plenaries featuring innovative research presentations by senior and emerging scholars note as well as the numerous presidential sessions listed in the program.

It is my hope that you will attend as many of the sessions as possible and leave Myrtle Beach with a deeper understanding and appreciation of the scholars and scholarly products produced for and by sociologists in the American South.

I am,

Earl Wright II
President, Southern Sociological Society
Rhodes College

Welcome from the Program Committee Co-Chairs

Welcome Distinguished Colleagues,

The Southern Sociological Society (SSS) has a rich history of research, leadership, scholarship, and service throughout the United States and abroad. This year's conference commemorates the 86th year of this tradition. This 86th annual meeting brings together an exciting schedule of events. The Southern Sociological Society continues to serve as a conduit for producing some of the best national and international scholars in sociology. This year's conference theme "I Will Find A Way or Make One: Embracing and Advancing the American South's Tradition of Sociological Innovation and Scholar-Activism" was specifically chosen to reflect SSS's mission to building a diverse association and creating a welcoming and inclusive environment for its members. This meeting is the place to discuss a wide range of sociological topics as well as a place to meet new colleagues and friends. Even though we contribute to society with our specialties, we come together to learn from our colleagues and friends the knowledge and skills needed to advance specific research agendas as we seek to analyze, explain, and offer communities innovative strategies to address complex social problems that confront our region. It is in our times that we must be willing to break down the disciplinary silos and interdisciplinary distinctions such as applied vis-à-vis pure or qualitative vis-à-vis quantitative to forge new discussions without disciplinary borders to address the issues at hand. On behalf of the 2023 Program Committee, we are overwhelmed with enthusiasm to welcome you to Myrtle Beach, SC. Also, we wish to thank all the session organizers and discussants who eagerly engaged in the formation of this program. It was a pleasure to meet and work with so many wonderful colleagues from the Southern Sociological Society and we are confident that you will have a magnificent experience at the 86th meeting of the Southern Sociological Society! It was a pleasure to meet and work with so many wonderful colleagues from the Southern Sociological Society. Finally, to seasoned and emerging scholars and practitioners, in the cherished words of Sundar Pichai, "a diverse mix of voices leads to better discussions, decisions, and outcomes for everyone."

Your colleagues,

Social Currents, the official journal of the Southern Sociological Society, is a broad-ranging social science journal that focuses on cutting-edge research from all methodological and theoretical orientations with implications for national and international sociological communities. The uniqueness of Social Currents lies in its format. The front end of every issue is devoted to short, theoretical, agenda-setting contributions and brief, empirical and policy-related pieces. The back end of every issue includes standard journal articles that cover topics within specific subfields of sociology, as well as across the social sciences more broadly.

Southern Sociological Society Anti-Harassment Policy

SSS reminds everyone: Our Annual Meeting is convened for the purposes of professional development and scholarly educational interchange in the spirit of free inquiry and free expression. Harassment of colleagues, students, hotel staff or other conference participants undermines the principle of equity at the heart of these professional fora and is inconsistent with the principles of free inquiry and free expression. Consequently, harassment is considered by SSS to be a serious form of professional misconduct.

The following Anti-Harassment Policy outlines expectations for all those who attend or participate in SSS meetings. It reminds SSS meeting participants that all professional academic ethics and norms apply as standards of behavior and interaction at these meetings.

Purpose

SSS is committed to providing a safe and welcoming conference environment for all participants, free from harassment based on age, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, language, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, disability, health conditions, socioeconomic status, marital status, domestic status, or parental status (hereafter, simply harassment).

"Participant" in this policy refers to anyone present at SSS meetings, including staff, contractors, vendors, exhibitors, venue staff, SSS members, and all other attendees.

Expected Behavior

All participants at SSS meetings are expected to abide by this Anti-Harassment Policy in all meeting venues including ancillary events as well as official and unofficial social gatherings.

- Follow the norms of professional respect that are necessary to promote the conditions for free academic interchange.
- If you witness potential harm to a conference participant, be proactive in helping to mitigate or avoid that harm.
- Alert conference security personnel or law enforcement if you see a situation in which someone might be in imminent physical danger.

Unacceptable Behavior

Harassment of any participant is unethical behavior under the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics, which offer guiding principles for how sociologists should conduct themselves in all professional activities both in person and online. Harassment consists of a single intense and severe act or of multiple persistent or pervasive acts which are demeaning, abusive, offensive, or create a hostile professional or workplace environment. Harassment may include sexual solicitation, physical advance, or verbal or non-verbal conduct that is sexual in nature; it may also include threatening, intimidating, or hostile acts; circulation of written or graphic material that denigrates or shows hostility toward an individual or group; epithets, slurs, or negative stereotyping based on group identity.

Attendees are encouraged to immediately report instances of harassment during the Annual Meeting to a member of the SSS Executive Committee (see list here <http://bit.ly/3KCK30N>) or the SSS Executive Officer, David L. Brunsmad, at brunsmad@vt.edu. To read the American Sociological Association Code of Ethics in its entirety, visit www.asanet.org and follow the link to "Ethics."

Mini-Conference I

Diasporic Womanisms and Indigenous Women's Movements of the Global South

Organizer: Sancha Medwinter, University of Massachusetts -Amherst
Tannuja Rozario, Everytown for Gun Safety, New York, NY
Monisha Jackson, Georgia State University

Theme: Reclaiming Our Names, Our Selves, and Our Spaces: Womanist Theory, Method, Activism, and Pedagogy

This mini-conference centers on the collective ideas of Clenora Hudson-Weems's "Africana Womanism: Reclaiming Ourselves," Mary E. Modupe' Kolawole's "Womanism and African Consciousness," Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak's "Can the Subaltern Speak?" Lila Abu-Lughod's "Do Muslim Women Need Saving?" and Gloria E. Anzaldúa's "Borderlands/La Frontera: The New Mestiza " that speak to contemporary realities for our Diasporic Womanisms and Indigenous Women's Movements of the Global South Mini-Conference. In these sessions, the need for women, men, and gender expansive members of the diasporas of the Global South to carve out an emancipatory space within Sociology for articulating collaborative struggles and priorities of whole communities will be analyzed. The mini-conference papers serve to advance a womanist framework that articulates women's oppression, resistance, and survival as inextricably tied to the oppression, resistance, and survival of their families and communities. Therefore, womanists prioritize community-facing dialogue with and work against oppression alongside women, men, and gender-expansive community members as self- and community- affirming work that matters and work that counts. Womanist theorizing encompasses intersectional approaches to understanding race, class, gender, sexuality, without privileging decontextualized gender and patriarchy. Womanists insist on their autonomy to self-name. They also self-define their oppression and their agency in their struggles to preserve ancestry, land, and community in the face of colonialism, racial capitalism, coloniality, neocolonialism, military occupation, white supremacy, cultural imperialism, and epistemic violence.

Mini-Conference II

Hazards and Disasters

Organizers: Kevin Smiley, Louisiana State University
Liesel Ritchie, Virginia Tech
Adam Michael Straub, Rowan University
Braden Leap, Mississippi State University

Theme: Advancing the Social Science of Disasters

From Bullard's (1990) Dumping in Dixie to numerous works on Hurricane Katrina and the Deepwater Horizon oil spill, Southern sociologists have repeatedly advanced our understanding of the causes and consequences of socioecological hazards and disasters, environmental justice, and climate change. This mini-conference will include both qualitative and quantitative analyses of hazards, disasters, coastal environments, and climate change in and beyond the Southern United States. Contemporary disasters in the South such as the Jackson, Mississippi, water crisis highlight the need for ongoing research on socioecological disasters across the region as does the annual meeting's location in coastal Myrtle Beach. However, in an era characterized by a range of hazards and disasters associated with global climate change, the results of such analyses carry considerable significance beyond the region, and we encourage projects from any region globally.

Join us in the following sessions:

48. Hazards and Disasters I: (Re-)Production of Natural and Technological Hazard Risk
Thursday | 1:00 pm-2:15 pm | Meeting Room 106

66. Hazards and Disasters II: Disaster Resilience Through Building Community Agentic Capacity
Thursday | 2:30 pm-3:45 pm | Meeting Room 106

83. Hazards and Disasters III: Investigating Coastlines, People, Inequalities, and Climate Change
Thursday | 4:00 pm-5:15 pm | Meeting Room 106

About the Speakers

Elizabeth Higginbotham, PhD. Professor Emerita, University of Delaware, is a native New Yorker who grew up in diverse communities. Her education and career took her to other places including Memphis, Tennessee where she was a member of the Southern Sociological Society. However, it was her working-class parents and home city that stamped her. Elizabeth decided to become a teacher in the fourth grade. Living in a city that offered a free university system helped her achieve her plan of becoming an educator. While attending City College of New York Elizabeth met faculty who raised her goal from teaching high school to college.

They encouraged her to pursue an advanced degree in Sociology, which she did, and in 1980 she earned a doctorate at Brandeis University.

Prior to her arrival at the University of Memphis, then called Memphis State University, Bonnie Thornton Dill had started the Center for Research on Women to advance the study of women of color and Southern women. Elizabeth moved to Memphis in 1983 to help her shape it. Together they conducted research, engaged in faculty development, and trained many promising students; a good number of whom became very successful sociologists. The trio that built the center, Bonnie Thornton Dill, Lynn Weber, and Elizabeth were recipients of the American Sociological Association Jessie Bernard Award and Distinguished Contributions to Teaching Award in 1993. The impact of Elizabeth and the Center for Research on Women on the discipline is tremendous and continues to serve as a template for other social equity initiatives.

Elizabeth is an accomplished scholar and author of Too Much to Ask: Black Women in the Era of Integration, co-author with Margaret L. Andersen of Race and Ethnicity in Society: The Changing Landscape, and co-editor of Women and Work: Exploring Race, Ethnicity, and Class with Mary Romero. In addition, she has published many articles in peer-reviewed journals and anthologies on women and work, women in higher education, and curriculum transformation.

B. Brian Foster, PhD is a writer, storyteller, and sociologist from Mississippi. He earned his Ph.D. in sociology from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and currently works as Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of Virginia. In his award-winning book, I Don't Like the Blues: Race, Place, and the Backbeat of Black Life, Professor Foster takes his research agenda to the Mississippi Delta. The book follows Black residents in the town of Clarksdale both as they navigate the on-the-ground impacts of substantial demographic restructuring in the Delta region and as they make sense of the town's attempt to use blues and heritage tourism as a tool to revitalize the local economy.

Dr. Foster currently serves as co-editor-in-chief of Sociology of Race and Ethnicity, the flagship peer-review journal for sociological research on race, racism, ethnicity, and related topics. His current work includes a collaborative photo-essay collection entitled Ghosts of Segregation and his next major research undertaking, Casino Town. Dr. Foster has also directed two award-winning short films and has bylines with Bitter Southerner, CNN, Delish.com, Esquire, the Ford Foundation, Veranda magazine, and the Washington Post.

Zandria F. Robinson, PhD is a writer, ethnographer, and music scholar working at the intersections of race, gender, popular culture, and the U.S. South. She earned the Bachelor of Arts in Literature and African and African American Studies and the Master of Arts in Sociology from the University of Memphis and the PhD in Sociology from Northwestern University. Robinson's first book, This Ain't Chicago: Race, Class, and Regional Identity in the Post-Soul South won the Eduardo Bonilla-Silva Outstanding Book Award from the Division of Racial and Ethnic Minorities of the Society for the Study of Social Problems. Her second monograph, Chocolate Cities: The Black Map of American Life, co-authored with Marcus Anthony Hunter, won the Robert E. Park Book Award from the Community and Urban Sociology Section of the American Sociological Association. She is a past president and long-time executive committee member of the Association of Black Sociologists. Dr. Robinson's writing can be found in several places, including Rolling Stone, Scalawag, Believer, Oxford American, The New York Times Magazine, and Glamour.

Clarence D. Armbrister, JD
President, Johnson C. Smith University

Clarence D. "Clay" Armbrister became the 14th president of Johnson C. Smith University in 2018. Armbrister, who brings over 35 years of experience in the private and public sectors, has an extensive background at all levels of education, including time in senior administrative and leadership positions at Temple University, Johns Hopkins University, the School District of Philadelphia and Girard College. In addition to his background in education, Armbrister has held executive positions in law, government and finance.

Armbrister began his professional career as a lawyer in the Public Finance Department of Saul, Ewing Remick & Saul, leaving as a partner in 1994 to serve as Philadelphia City Treasurer, where he managed the city's funds, investments and debt. In 1995, he coordinated the presentations of city officials which convinced the rating agencies to restore the City of Philadelphia's debt ratings to investment grade from "junk bond" ratings.

He went on to become the Managing Director of the Philadelphia School District, which at the time was the fourth largest school district in the country. Serving simultaneously as its chief financial officer and chief operating officer, Armbrister addressed head-on the issue of inadequate funding to urban schools compared to their suburban counterparts and significantly advanced the debate.

His return to the private sector as an investment banker at PaineWebber (subsequently UBS) saw him advance quickly, from a vice president to a director in the Municipal Securities Group, where he led nationwide efforts in underwriting transactions for issuers in the K-12 public education market.

Armbrister's strong belief in the transformative powers of education was the primary factor in his return to the field of education. Armbrister joined Temple University and for the next five years progressed from senior vice president for administration to executive vice president and COO. During his tenure, Armbrister was responsible for $400 million in capital projects on several campuses and managed the campus through a rapid conversion from primarily a commuter school to a residential campus. He also led Temple's management, planning and coordination of student affairs, facilities management services, campus safety services, intercollegiate athletics, computer and information services, affirmative action, enrollment management services, and management analysis.

Armbrister has also taught in higher education. He served as an adjunct faculty member at Temple, developing and teaching a municipal finance curriculum in the Beasley School of Law. Additionally, he served as chief of staff to the president and senior vice president at Johns Hopkins University and more recently, president and CEO at Girard College, a 170-year-old historically unique Philadelphia boarding school.

Armbrister has been successful at the highest levels of municipal government, working with some of the most well-known politicians in the recent history of Philadelphia and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. He was appointed Philadelphia City Treasurer by then-Mayor Ed Rendell. Armbrister also served as former Philadelphia Mayor Michael Nutter's first chief of staff.

He has a long history of volunteer service. Currently he serves on the boards of Devereux Advanced Behavioral Health and Health Partners Plan, Inc. He is the former President of the Board of the National Adoption Center, and recently completed service on the board of the Community College of Philadelphia. When Armbrister was a practicing attorney he maintained memberships in the American Bar Association, National Bar Association, Pennsylvania Bar Association, National Association of Securities Professionals, and Government Finance Officers Association.

A native of Miami, FL, Armbrister received a bachelor of arts degree in political science (concentrating in public policy) and in economics from the University of Pennsylvania, and his juris doctor degree from the University of Michigan Law School. His wife, Denise, and he have five children and three grandchildren.

Anthony L. Jenkins, PhD
President of Coppin State University

Anthony L. Jenkins, PhD, became the eighth President of Coppin State University (CSU) on May 26, 2020. A respected higher education leader, he is an advocate committed to creating opportunities for all students, especially those from underrepresented communities.

He is a champion of public policy issues that foster meaningful dialogue within the landscape of higher education. President Jenkins has delivered keynote addresses to audiences across the United States and internationally. His speeches, research, presentations, and publications have been focused on economic development, crisis management, enrollment and retention, diversity, leadership, African-American male initiatives, social justice, first-generation college students, funding higher education, mentoring, and high-risk college campus behavior such as alcohol consumption and sexual misconduct.

President Jenkins is leading the Coppin State University family with an unwavering commitment to student-centeredness, excellence, transparency, and accountability. Through collaboration with students, faculty, staff, alumni, and the Baltimore community, President Jenkins is positioning Coppin State University to become a national leader in urban higher education that transforms the lives of students, from all backgrounds. Coppin State University is recognized, nationally, for its healthcare, business, psychology, criminal justice, teacher education, social work, and STEM academic programs.

President Jenkins has expanded the academic portfolio by developing and implementing new, high-demand academic program offerings, such as: the certificate in Entrepreneurship and Innovation, the Master of Science in Health Information Management, the Bachelor of Science in Data Science, the Master of Science in Applied Molecular Biology and Biochemistry, and the Master of Science in Polymer and Materials Sciences. Greater emphasis has been placed on adult learners and, therefore, three fully online degree programs are under development with the Bachelor of Science in Management Information Systems recently receiving full approval for online offering. The Bachelor of Science in Early Childhood Education – Human Development, Bachelor of Science in Health Information Management, and the Doctorate of Nursing Practice will be submitted for approval to offer through online modality.

As President of Coppin State University, he serves on the Board of Directors of the Hippodrome Foundation; the Baltimore chapter of President Obama’s national initiative, My Brother’s Keeper; Healthcare Access Maryland; the Maryland Zoological Society; the Boy Scouts of America – Baltimore Area Council; the Association of Public and Land-Grant Universities; and the national advisory council for Ninety To Zero. He is also a member the President’s Council of the Greater Baltimore Committee.

President Jenkins has been honored by several civic organizations and universities for his leadership on social change and community engagement. He has been invited to discuss important higher education issues on various media outlets, appearing on Maryland Public Television, Fox News, CBS News, The Jim Strawn Talk Show, HBCU’ish, Hoppy Kercheval – WV MetroNews, IHeart Radio, TEDCO Talks, WOLB, HBCU Digest, C-SPAN, The Box Podcast, NPR and the Roland Martin Show. President Jenkins has been inducted into several prestigious academic honor, business, and leadership societies, including Alpha Kappa Psi; Phi Kappa Phi; Sigma Alpha Pi; Alpha Sigma Lambda; Omicron Delta Kappa; Alpha Phi Sigma; Pi NU; and Order of Omega. The Baltimore Business Journal included him in their 2021 cohort of “Faces to Watch.”

Born in Washington, D.C., and raised between the nation’s capital and North Carolina, Jenkins is a United States Army veteran who began his path to the presidency as a first-generation college graduate of Fayetteville State University. He earned a master’s degree from North Carolina Central University and a doctorate from Virginia Tech. President Jenkins is the first graduate in the history of Virginia Tech’s Higher Education and Student Affairs (HESA) doctoral program to become a college or university president.

President Jenkins is married to his college sweetheart, Toinette Jenkins, who proudly serves as the First Lady of Coppin State University. They have two daughters.

Session Glossary

AMCR- These “Author-Meets-Curious-Reader” Sessions are an opportunity for authors and other experts in their field to discuss recent publications. Join these conversations to learn more about new sociological material and to hear from those likely to agree, or disagree, with the conclusions drawn.

Mini-Conference—A formal grouping of paper sessions around a central theme. The sessions provide an opportunity to learn from authors about the work they have been doing and the new sociological knowledge. These mini-conference sessions are built of 10-minute presentations and question-and-answer sessions where time allows.

Panel Sessions- These curated conversations focus on a topic and the scholars making waves within it. In viewing these sessions, you will both learn from those presenting and have the opportunity to ask questions to learn more about the subject.

Paper Sessions--Paper sessions are the opportunity to learn from authors about the work they have been doing and the new sociological knowledge coming out of it. These sessions are built of 10-minute presentations and question and answer sessions where time allows.

Plenary Session– An invited formal presentation to the entire society focused on a topic that highlights the theme of the conference.

Poster Sessions- Almost paper sessions but based on posters, these sessions allow scholars to share their work with an active audience. Presenters in these sessions range from undergraduates sharing their work with the community for the first time to tenured professors continuing to share their knowledge.

Presidential Address—A formal session that serves as the keynote address of the society delivered by the president.

Roundtables– Roundtables are informal presentations focused more on conversations about the researcher’s topic. These do not include formal presentations opting instead for an informed conversational approach.

SSS 2023 Thematic Sessions—These paper sessions and panel sessions have been selected because of their unique connection the conference theme, “I Will Find A Way or Make One.” Embracing and Advancing the American South’s Tradition of Sociological Innovation and Scholar-Activism”

Workshops--Attend these to learn from experienced members of our network about the way they do their work as sociologists.
